OVERVIEW

280 N. Park Street is a 23,789 square foot industrial flex building situated on 1.38 acres in Dallastown Borough, Pennsylvania. Located among other industrial and commercial properties, the property offers excellent accessibility, being just 1/4 mile from Route 74 and 4 miles from Interstate 83. The building features a well-balanced mix of finished office space on the first floor, and partially finished office areas on the second floor. The industrial section boasts a clear span fully insulated steel structure with 16' clear to rafters and 13' 6" to ceiling, providing an expansive, versatile space for a variety of uses. This area includes one 16' X 12' drive-in door, one 8' X 8' dock with no leveler, restroom facilities, two offices, and a large paint booth—ideal for businesses requiring specialized equipment or workspaces. The property is equipped with 200A/480V/3Phase power, compressed air, and all public utilities, ensuring that it meets the demands of modern industrial operations.

Additionally, there are two tenant-occupied spaces (2,438 SF and 2,605 SF), which can provide rental income or remain as-is, depending on your needs. The property has twelve parking spaces in the front and ample yard space in the rear, offering room for expansion, storage, or additional parking.

Visibility is a key benefit of this property, with an illuminated box sign on the building and a large pylon sign at the property entrance, offering excellent exposure for any business.

This property is highly adaptable, offering multiple layout options and a range of possibilities for a wide variety of businesses, from light manufacturing to distribution. Its prime location, strong infrastructure, and flexibility make it an ideal investment for both owner-occupiers and investors seeking long-term growth potential.
